LATEST NEWS

The design for the Ipswich Central car park refurbishment is now being finalised and meetings will soon commence with contractors. These works will include a renovation of the existing car park interiors, including lighting, painting throughout and new lifts.

All-day and regular car park users may experience some short-term inconvenience as sections of the car park may be inaccessible for short periods during works, however we will continue to keep all stakeholders notified via this newsletter, the Ipswich Central Facebook page and via emails. Signage will also be used to notify car park customers of any changes.

The demolition crew from Hutchinson's Builders has now demobilised from the site however a building representative will remain on site now until the next round of construction commences.

Design is underway on the library and Council administration building and tenders are expected to be advertised shortly.

The upgrade of the Ipswich Central car park is currently being investigated with parking level 1 to remain closed until all Mall works are completed. Access to the Bradfield Bridge via P1 of the car park will remain open and accessible during these works.

Tenders are now closed for the upcoming Nicholas Street roadworks and are currently undergoing a review process. It is anticipated that the first stage of the roadworks, which will involve the demolition of the existing pedestrian mall, will start over the coming months.
